[8.a4 a5!? Eine sehr moderne Idee in einer Eröffnung, die sich von Tag zu Tag weiterentwickelt. Grischuk wird dieser Plan zugeschrieben, obwohl er in einer etwas anderen Zugfolge gespielt wurde. Schwarz zieht bizarrerweise den a-Bauern in drei Zügen ein zweites Mal. Er argumentiert, dass der "zusätzliche" a2-a4-Zug von Weiß nicht so nützlich ist, wie er aussieht, und dass das Tempo eine lohnende Investition war, da er nun das b4-Feld unter Kontrolle hat. (8...h6 are both regularly seen alternatives.) 9.h3 h6 10.Nbd2 Be6 11.Bb5 Na7 12.d4 Nxb5 Das alles hat man schon einmal gesehen,jetzt gibt es einen Scheideweg:

12.Nxb6!? As expected Gajwa goes for the most principled line. 12...axb6 13.dxe5 dxe5!? During the game deploying the queen to e8-h5 diagonal looked like the most reliable solution to the problems. 14.Nxe5 Anand played this against ...g6 but things are not the same with ♕e8 since there is no ♗h6 in some lines. 14...Qa4N I have gone for the active piece play. 15.Qd3 Nf6

Trotz des beträchtlichen Materialvorteils ist Weiß nicht in der Lage, den Gewinn zu erzwingen. Der schwarze Turm besetzt weiterhin die sechste Reihe, geschützt durch den Springer, der wiederum durch den König geschützt wird. Wenn Weiß seinen König von g3 nach f5 vorzieht und dann auf e6 die Dame für Turm und Springer opfert (DxTe6 SxDe6, Kxe6), würde Schwarz seinen König auf g7 oder g8 stellen, um den weißen g-Bauern aufzuhalten, während der schwarze b-Bauer nicht mehr aufgehalten werden kann. Ein sehr seltenes Beispiel, bei dem die Dame den Sieg gegen Turm und Springer nicht erzwingen kann.

Malgré le considérable avantage matériel les Blancs sont incapables de forcer le gain. La Tour noire continue à occuper la sixième traverse, protégée par le Cavalier, lui-même protégé par le Roi. Si les Blancs avancent leur Roi de g3 en f5, sacrifient ensuite en e6 la Dame pour Tour et Cavalier (DxTe6 SxDe6, Kxe6), les Noirs placeraient leur Roi sur g7 ou g8 pour arrêter le pion g blanc, tandis que le pion b noir ne pourrait plus être arrêté. Un très rare exemple où la Dame ne peut forcer la victoire contre Tour et Cavalier.

[Fraser, TA]

Myers: This is Game #47 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes.

Myers: This is Game #51 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes.

Hebert, J (ICCF Gold): 'John Henderson was the winner of the first round robin CC individuals event ever held in Canada in 1878. Unfortunately we could not find any of his games from that event, but we find some examples of his play from a few years earlier. Here is one of his best efforts. Dunne: Victor Contoski teaches American literature, comtemporary poetry, and creative writing at the University of Kansas. He is know not only for his own poetry but also for his translations of contemporary Polish poetry. Victor was the winner of the 3rd USA Correspondence Championship. /// Myers: According to Avery, Prof Contoski completely gave up chess in favor of shogi. He wrote in a letter (1994) to Avery: "I no longer play western chess. Strange that I should drop a game at which I won the US Championship and which I played all my life. But postal chess has become too muchof a research project for me. I never thought I'd find a game I like better than chess [referring to shogi], but I have!" [Fraser, TA]

Myers: This is Game #64 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes.

[Fraser, TA]

Myers: This is Game #53 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes.
Myers: This is Game #53 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes. Myers: This game is given as #1 by GM Soltis in "The 100 Best Chess Games" and #55 (in date order) by Burgess/Nunn/Emms in "The World's Greatest Chess Games". In 1998-9, "Chess Mail" readers voted it the best correspondence chess game ever played. /// Soltis: Hans Berliner (1929-) was one of the strongest genuine amateurs in a century that saw chess surge towards professionalism. Born in Berlin, his family emigrated to the United States as World War II approached, and Berliner was naturalized as an American citizen at age 14. Berliner became one of the earliest computer programers [to work on chess playing computers]: he developed a world computer championship program and earned a PhD with a thesis on "Chess as Problem Solving". He also developed a program for backgammon that defeated the reigning World Champion in a seven-point match. Berliner also was [a strong enough over-the-board chess player] to qualifiy for US Champoinships and for the United States team that competed in the 1952 Olympiad. But Berliner turned to postal chess in 1955, and during 1965-1968 he won the 5th World Correspondence Championship with a huge 3-point margin--and then essentially retired from all competition. In this key game from the postal championship, he faced many-time Moscow champion Yakov Estrin, one of the renaissance men of Soviet chess. Estrin (1923-1987) earned the International Master title in over-the-board play and the International Grandmaster and International Arbiter titles in correspondence play, and was an accomplished trainer and prolific writer, particularly on openings. He became the 7th postal World Champion in the 1972-1976 series. 1.e4 Myers Harding Burgess Russell Soltis Berliner 1...e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 Bxb4 5.c3 Ba5!? 6.d4! d6 7.Qb3 Qd7 8.dxe5 dxe5 9.Ba3 Bb6 10.Nbd2 Na5!N Berliner's innovation and the subject of dozens of investigations since it was first played by correspondence in 1965.

GAME NO. 1
GIUOCO PIANO
The chief object of all opening strategy is to get the pieces out quickly-off the back rank and into active play.
You cannot attack (let alone try to checkmate) with one or two pieces.
You must develop all of them, as each one has a job to do.
A good way to begin is to release two pieces at one stroke, and this can be done by advancing one of the center Pawns.
1.e4 ChessBase II Jakobetz John Watson AhuesThis is an excellent opening move. White anchors a Pawn in the center of the board and opens lines for his Queen and a Bishop. His next move, if let alone, will be 2.d4. The two Pawns will then control four squares on the fifth rank, c5, d5, e5 and f5, and prevent Black from placing any of his pieces on those important squares.
How shall Black reply to White's first move? He must not waste time considering meaningless moves, such as 1.... h6 or 1.... a6. These and other aimless moves do nothing toward developing the pieces, nor do they interfere with White's threat to monopolize the center.
* Black must fight for an equal share of the good squares. Black must dispute possession of the center. *
Why all this stress on the center? Why is it so important?

Pieces placed in the center enjoy the greatest freedom of action and have the widest scope for their attacking powers. A Knight, for example, posted in the center, reaches out in eight directions and attacks eight squares. Standing at the side of the board, its range of attack is limited to four squares. It is only half a Knight!
Occupation of the center means control of the most valuable territory. It leaves less room for the enemy's pieces, and makes defense difficult, as his pieces tend to get in each other's way.
Occupation of the center, or control of it from a distance, sets up a barrier which divides the opponent's forces and prevents them from cooperating harmoniously. Resistance by an army thus disunited is usually not very effective.
1...e5 Very good! Black insists on a fair share of the center. He fixes a Pawn firmly there and liberates two of his pieces.
2.Nf3! Absolutely the best move on the board!
The Knight develops with a threat-attack on a Pawn. This gains time as Black is not free to develop as he pleases. * He must save the Pawn before he does anything else, * and this cuts down his choice of reply.
The Knight develops toward the center, which increases the scope of his attack.
The Knight exerts pressure on two of the strategic squares in the center, e5 and d4.
The Knight comes into play early in the game, in compliance with the precept: * Develop Knights before Bishops! *
One reason for the cogency of this principle is that the Knight takes shorter steps than the Bishop. It takes longer for him to get to the fighting area. The Bishop can sweep the length of the chessboard in one move (notice how the King Bishop can reach away over to a6). Where the Knight takes a hop, skip and jump to get to b5, the Bishop makes it in one leap.
Another purpose in developing the Knights first is that we are fairly sure where they belong in the opening. We know that they are most effective on certain squares. We are not always certain of the right spot for the Bishop. We may want the Bishop to command a long diagonal, or we may prefer to have it pin an enemy piece. So: * Bring out your Knights before developing the Bishops! *
At this point you will note that Black must defend his King Pawn before going about his business. There are several ways to protect the Pawn. He must evaluate and choose from these possibilities:
2.... f6 2....Qf6 2....Qe7 2....Bd6 2....d6 2.... Nc6
How does Black decide on the right move? Must he analyze countless combinations and try to visualize every sort of attack and defense for the next ten or fifteen moves?
Let me hasten to assure you that a master does not waste valuable time on futile speculation. Instead, he makes use of a potent secret weapon-position judgment. Applying it enables him to eliminate from consideration inferior moves, to which the average player gives much thought. He hardly glances at moves that are obviously violations of principle!
Here is what might go through his mind as he selects the right move:

2. . . . f6: "Terrible! My f-Pawn occupies a square which should be reserved for the Knight and it also blocks the Queen's path along the diagonal. And I've moved a Pawn when I should be developing pieces."
2. . . . Qf6: "Bad, since my Knight belongs at f6, not the Queen. Also, I'm wasting the power of my strongest piece to defend a Pawn."
2. . . . Qe7: "This shuts the King Bishop out, while my Queen is doing a job which a lesser piece could handle."
2. . . . Bd6: "I've developed a piece, but the Queen Pawn is obstructed, and my Queen Bishop may be buried alive."
2. . . . d6: "Not bad, since it gives the Queen Bishop an outlet. But wait-it limits the range of the King Bishop, and again I've moved a Pawn when I should be putting pieces to work."
2. . . . Nc6: "Eureka! This must be best, as I have developed a piece to its most suitable square and protected the King Pawn at the same time."
2...Nc6! Without going into tedious analysis, Black picks out the best possible move. He follows the advice of the Frenchman who said, "* Sortez les pieces! *" He brings a piece out and saves the King Pawn * without any loss of time. *
I would caution you that this and other maxims are not to be blindly followed. In chess, as in life, rules must often be swept aside. In general though, the principles governing sound chess play do make wonderful guideposts, especially in the opening, the midgame and the ending!
3.Bc4 "The best attacking piece is the King Bishop," says Tarrasch. So White puts this piece to work and clears the way for early castling.
The Bishop seizes a valuable diagonal in the center and attacks Black's f-Pawn. This Pawn is particularly vulnerable as it is guarded by one piece only-the King. It is not unusual even early in the game to sacrifice a piece for this Pawn, so that the King in capturing it is uprooted, driven into the open and exposed to a violent attack.
3...Bc5 Is this the most suitable square for the Bishop? Let us look at the alternatives:
3. . . . Bb4: Inferior, as the Bishop takes no part in the struggle for control of the center and has little scope here.
3. . . . Bd6: Poor, since the Queen Pawn is blocked, and the other Bishop may have trouble coming out.
3. . . . Be7: Not too bad, as the Bishop looks out on two diagonals and is well placed for defense. At e7 the Bishop has made only one step forward, * but it has been developed once it has left the back rank. * The important thing to remember is that every piece must be put in motion.
The strongest developing move is 3. . . . Bc5. At this excellent square the Bishop commands an important diagonal, exerts pressure on the center and attacks a weak Pawn. This deployment conforms with two golden rules for procedure in the opening:
* Place each piece as quickly as possible on the square where it is most effective. *
* Move each piece only once in the opening. *

4.c3 White's primary object is to establish two Pawns in the center. He intends to support an advance of the Queen Pawn. After 5. d4, attacking Bishop and Pawn, Black must reply 5. . . . exd4. The recapture by 6. cxd4 leaves White with two Pawns in control of the center.
His secondary aim is to bring the Queen to b3, intensifying the pressure on the King Bishop Pawn.
These are its virtues, but there are drawbacks to 4. c3:
In the opening, pieces not Pawns should be moved.
In advancing to c3, the Pawn occupies a square which should be reserved for the Queen Knight.
4...Qe7 Very good! Black develops a piece while parrying the threat. If White persists in playing 5. d4, the continuation 5. . . . exd4 6. cxd4, Qxe4+ wins a Pawn. The capture with check gives White no time to recover the Pawn, and the extra Pawn, everything else being equal, is enough to win the game.
5.0-0 White postpones the advance of the Queen Pawn and moves his King to a safer place.
* Castle early in the game, preferably on the King side. *
[5.d4 exd4 6.cxd4 Qxe4+]
5...d6 Supports King Pawn and Bishop and strengthens the center. Now the Queen Bishop can get into the game.
6.d4 With the hope that Black will exchange Pawns. This would leave White with an impressive line-up in the center, while the square c3 is then available for his Knight. If after 6.... exd4 7. cxd4, Qxe4, White punishes the Pawn-snatching by 8. Re1 pinning the Queen.
6...Bb6 But Black need not capture! Now that his King Pawn is secure, the Bishop simply retreats, still bearing down on the center from its new position.
Despite its formidable appearance, White's Pawn center is shaky. The Queen Pawn is attacked three times, and White must keep a triple guard on it while trying to complete his development. On 7. Qb3, which he contemplated earlier, the Queen's protection is removed, while 7. Nbd2, it is cut off. Meanwhile he is faced with the threat of 7. . . . Bg4 pinning and thereby rendering useless one of the Pawn's supports.
Before committing himself to a definite course of action, White sets little trap:
[6...exd4 7.cxd4 Qxe4 8.Re1]
7.a4 A tricky move, but an illogical one. White threatens an attack on the Bishop by 8. a5. If then 8. . . . Bxa5 9. d5 strikes at the Knight protecting the Bishop. After the reply 9. . . . Nd8, White captures by 10. Rxa5, winning a piece. Should Black, after 8. a5, play 8. . . . Nxa5, the continuation 9. Rxa5, Bxa5 10. Qa4+ nets White two pieces for a Rook.
But what right has White to play combinations when his development is so backward? An attack, such as he initiates here, is premature and should not succeed.
* Develop all your pieces before starting any combinations! *

7...a6 Prepares a retreat for the Bishop. This does not violate the precept about making unnecessary Pawn moves in the opening. Development is not meant to be routine or automatic. Threats must always be disposed of first. If more justification is needed, consider that Black's loss of time is compensated for by White's fruitless 7. a4 move.

8.a5N There is just a wee chance that Black will be tempted to take the Pawn.

9.h3 A coffee-house move! Weak players make this move instinctively (yielding to base instincts) in dire dread of having a piece pinned.

It is better to submit to the pin (a temporary inconvenience) than to prevent it by a move which loosens the position of the Pawns defending the King and weakens the structure permanently. Moving h3 or g3 after castling creates an organic weakness which can never be remedied, as a Pawn once advanced cannot retreat, and the position once altered cannot be restored. The Pawn that has moved forward itself becomes a target for direct attack, while the square it guarded earlier (here it is g3) makes a landing field for the enemy's troops.

"You should never, unless of necessity or to gain an advantage, move the Pawns in front of the castled King," says Tarrasch, "for each Pawn move loosens the position." Alekhine puts it even stronger: "Always try to keep the three Pawns in front of your castled King on their original squares as long as possible."
Black can now speculate on breaking up White's King side by removing his Rook Pawn, even at the cost of a piece. The recapture tears open the Knight file and exposes White's King to attack. This plan is of course not to be put into action until more pieces are brought into play.
9...Nf6 The Knight swings into the fray with an attack on the e-Pawn.
The move is excellent and conforms with a useful tactical device:
* Develop with a threat whenever possible! *
Remember, that to meet the threat, the opponent must drop whatever he is doing.
10.dxe5 White exchanges, and opens up lines for his pieces. Unfortunately this reacts in Black's favor, in accordance with the rule in these cases:
* Open lines result to the advantage of the player whose development is superior. *
[10.d5]
10...Nxe5 Much stronger than taking with the Pawn. The Queen's Knight, beautifully centralized, radiates power in every direction (something a Pawn cannot do).
The disappearance of White's d-Pawn has benefited Black's Bishop, hidden away at a7. Its range has been extended, so that it now controls the whole of the long diagonal leading to White's f-Pawn-and the King behind the Pawn!
What shall White do now? He has done nothing to relieve the plight of his e-Pawn. It is still attacked by one of Black's Knights, while his Bishop is threatened by the other.
11.Nxe5 This looks plausible, as White gets rid of a powerfully placed piece. But in making this exchange, White's own King Knight, * the best defender of the castled position, * also comes off the board. The importance of holding on to the King Knight in such situations was pointed out by Steinitz more than seventy years ago, when he said, "Three unmoved Pawns on the King's side in conjunction with minor piece form a strong bulwark against an attack on that wing." Tarrasch attests to the valuable properties of the King Knight with a simple emphatic statement: "A Knight at f3/f6 is the best defense of a castled position on the King side."
11...Qxe5 Observe that White's Knight disppeared completely from the board, * but Black's Knight has been replaced by another piece. *
This new piece, the Queen, is magnificently posted at e5. She dominates the center, bears down on the hapless e-Pawn, and is poised for quick action to any part the board.
How does White solve the problems posed by the position of the menacing Queen and the attacks on his King Pawn? He would love to dislodge the Queen by 12. f4, but unfortunately the move is illegal. Can he save the Pawn?
12.Nd2 Desperately hoping that Black will snatch up the Pawn, when this would follow: 12. . . . Nxe4 13. Nxe4, Qxe4 14. Rel, and the pin wins the Queen.
But Black is not interested in grabbing Pawns. His positional superiority is great enough to justify his looking for a combination that will force a conclusive win. His Bishops exert terrific pressure on the long diagonals (even though one Bishop is still undeveloped!). Each of them attacks a Pawn shielding the King. Black's Queen is ready to swing over to the King side, while the Knight can leap in if more help is needed. Black controls the center, a condition which, Capablanca says, is essential for a successful attack against the King. In short, Black is entitled to a winning combination as reward for his methodical position play.

The question is: Is there a target available for the explosion of this pent-up power?
[≥ 12.Qa4+]
12...Bxh3! Yes, indeed! The Rook Pawn, which innocently moved to h3 to prevent a pin!
Black removes the offending Pawn-fit punishment for the crime of weakening the position and betraying his King.
[12...Nxe4 13.Nxe4 Qxe4 14.Re1]
13.gxh3 White must capture the Bishop or be a Pawn down with nothing to show for it.
13...Qg3+! A crashing entrance! Notice how Black exploited the two main consequences of the 9. h3 move. He captured the h-Pawn itself and utilized as a point of invasion the square g3, weakened by its advance.
14.Kh1 White may not touch the Queen, as his f-Pawn is pinned.
14...Qxh3+ Black destroys another defending Pawn, further exposing the King.
15.Kg1 White's only move. In return for the sacrificed Bishop, Black has two Pawns-and the attack.
15...Ng4 Threatens mate on the move. White must guard against the threat at h2 or give his King a flight-square. If he tries to give his King room by 16. Re1, he falls into 16. . . . Bxf2 mate. So he plays:
16.Nf3 To guard h2 and stop mate by the Queen.
How does Black conclude the attack? He reasons it out this way: I have captured two of the Pawns near the King. If I can remove the third Pawn it will deprive the King of the last shred of protection, and he will be helpless. This last defender, the f-Pawn, is attacked by my Knight and Bishop, and protected by his Rook and King. I must either drive off one of the defenders or attack the Pawn a third time. Perhaps I can do both!
16...Qg3+ Again exploiting the circumstance that the f-Pawn is pinned, Black attacks it with a third piece, the Queen.
17.Kh1 The King must move to the corner and desert the Pawn. Only the Rook defends it now, against an attack by Queen, Knight and Bishop. The Pawn must fall, and with it the game.
17...Bxf2 Δ 18...Qh3+ 19.Nh2 Qxh2# Covers the King's flight-square, g1, and prevents him from returning there in answer to a check.
18. Resigns
Black's threat was 18. . . .Qh3+ 19. Nh2, Qxh2#. Since 18. Rxf2 runs into 18... .

The main feature of this ancient game is the simultaneous assault by White on f7 and Black on f2, the weakest square on each side. The 90s saw the emergence of the first grandmasters from Red China, which finally embraced Western chess. In 1990 Xie Jun spearheaded their women's team to third place in the biennial Olympiad. In 1991 she captured the women's world championship, breaking the Russian grip on this coveted title, which she defended in 1993. Here she outplays young Joshua Waitzkin, subject of the book and movie "Searching For Bobby Fischer." [Fraser, TA]

Myers: This is Game #99 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes.

☐ Analysis

■ The Evans Gambit

Chess Analysis

[Bologan,V, TA]

Fast Lane

The Main Line(Line B)has far fewer variations to learn.

Although an offshoot of the Giuoco Piano,the Evans is a fortissimo game.Black should avoid giving Whiite the chance of adopting it.

Frank Marshall,Marshall's Chess Openings

However,contrary to Frank's suggestion,in this chapter after ... 1.e4 e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 ... Black is willing to accept the challenge with ... 4...Bxb4 5.c3

[5.Bb2? d6∓]

[5.a3? Ba5∓]

[5.0-0?! would give Black an important tempo for Nf6 which,after 6.c3 ,allows a safe return with Be7 and the fortification of his position,after 7.d4 ,with d6]

A) 5 ... Bc5

B) 5... Ba5

A) With this line,we are entering a time machine and going back to the romantic 19th century.

B) This is the officially approved way to play against the Evans Gambit but,since the main lines are complicated,I have turned to some old and reliable ideas. 5...Ba5 By not returning to the c5-square,Black avoids the possibility that White could gain a tempo by attacking this ♗ with d2-d4,which will be important in the main line.

[5...Bc5 6.d4 *(*After 6.0-0 d6 7.d4 d4,Black will return to the main line with exd4) 6...exd4

A) A good thing with the Romantic Line is that after the typical but wrong 7.Qb3 comes Qe7 and Black has more influence in the center,which is not good for White.For example: 8.0-0 d6 9.cxd4 Nxd4! 10.Nxd4 Bxd4 11.Nc3 Nf6 12.Bg5 1-0 Letelier Nicolai,P (1723)-Arias,M (1517) La Florida CALF op 2003 (5.10) Bxc3 13.Qxc3 0-0 ,and Black is better;

B) By the way, 7.0-0 d6 *(*weaker is 7...d3 because of Tartakower's 8.Ng5 Nh6 9.Nxf7!) 8.cxd4 Bb6 is the more popular move order,but the text move makes 7 ... Bb4+ tempting.I would avoid that check because of the complications arising after the tricky 8 Kf1!?(White scores 64% with this move);

C) 7.cxd4 So Black should transpose to the main line with ... 7...Bb6

C1) After 8.Qb3 ,instead of Nxd4 (,even better is 8...Na5! Sitting Bull's Strategy );

C2) ,while 8.d5 Na5 9.Bd3 d6 transposes to Line A4;

C3) 8.0-0 d6 There is one good thing about this position:it's so out of fashion that most gambiteers actually don't know what to do next.

C3a) Chigorin once tried to secure himself from ... Na5 by playing 9.a4

,but after Bg4! 10.Bb5 0-1 Chigorin,M-Lasker,E St Petersburg game 1897 Bxf3 11.gxf3 Qf6 12.Be3 a6 13.Bxc6+ bxc6 ,Black has an edge;

C3b) Against Staunton's Line 9.Qb3?! ,Black will use Sitting Bull's Strategy: Na5! The point is that White loses a piece after1-0 Plenca,J (2256)-Rubil,M (1974) CRO-chT U20 17th 2008 (10) 10.Bxf7+? Kf8 11.Qd5 Nf6;

C3c) If White creates the 'Evans machine-gun' with 9.Ba3 ,Black can put additional pressure on the center by playing Bg4!? as in the previous sub-variation 0-1 Kipping,J-Staunton,H London 1853 ( (without the inserted ... Na5 Black cannot play 9...Nge7 because of 10.Ng5 1-0 Rousseau,E-D'Andre,E Paris 1867 );

C3d) Riemann's Variation has a transpositional trick.After 9.Bg5 comes Nge7

Traps

An amusing aspect is that White can fall right into a trap by playing a typical move(9 Qb3)for the Evans Gambit!

Line B1b is a trap based on Sitting Bull's Strategy.

Transpositions & Move Order

If White captures with 7 cxd4 prior to castling,Black should retreat with 7 ... Bb6 and avoid the tempting check on b4.

9 Bg5/10 Nc3 and 9 Nc3 /10 Bg5(Line A4)are not interchangeable.Mix the moves and, as one song says,you'll get the blues.

Line A2 could transpose to Line A3.

Sometimes after 5 ... Ba5,White likes to mix up the move order and,instead of 6 d4, first plays 6 0-0 and only then 7 d4.This gives Black an opportunity to obtain an advantage.

Ideas To Remember

Finch's ♘(Line A).

5.d3 Although this move was already mentioned in the works of Pedro Damiano and Ruy Lopez de Segura,the Prophylactic Line ... 5...a6N ... appeared not earlier than 1973,in one correspondence game.When Viktor Kortchnoi surprised Anatoly Karpov with this move in their second World Championship match(1982),White spent a long time trying to figure out what is actually going on.The idea of this move is to prepare

... Ba7 and the ... d7-d5 break(before or after castling),followed by the exchange on e4(if White doesn't take on d5).But that's not all! Since in this chapter White's ♔ will sit calmly in the center while waiting for the opportunity to launch an attack on the ♔-side,with the text move Black retains the option of castling on the opposite side(like in Line D1 or D4a).

[6.Nbd2 In the middle of the 19th century the first American champion,Charles Henry Stanley,was the first to play the maneuver Nb1-d2-fl -g3 prior to castling.The main idea of this maneuver is to gain a tempo by not having to play Re1 in order to free the fl-square for the ♘,as well as allowing White to initiate a ♔-side attack without castling,by playing g2-g4-g5.Later Wilhelm Steinitz adopted this approach.I was introduced to this idea by my coach Vyacheslav Chebanenko,who was a big expert on the Italian Game.The negative side of this maneuver is that White temporarily blocks his dark-squared ♗,which means that he won't be able to play Bg5 to prevent ... 0-0 and ... d7-d5.

Traps

Black just has to be wise with his ♔ and there will be no traps.

Transpositions & Move Order

White's strategy is to launch a ♔-side attack as soon as Black castles ♔-side.This is why Black castles early only in Line D3(because after 7 Nbd2 White doesn't have Bg5).

Keep in mind that when White castles early,the game transposes to the next chapter.

Some players occasionally play 5 ... d6 first and then 6 ... a6.However,since we want to push ... d7-d5 in one move,let's stick to the correct move order!
One can never know when White will play Bb3,or whether he will play that move at all. It doesn't matter since,in either case,Black reacts in similar fashion.
Ideas To Remember
The Fritz-Metger Maneuver(Line A & B).
The Black Shark(Line D4b).
Stanley's Maneuver(Line C & D3a).

It seems rather rash to venture on it in a correspondence game. - Not clear yet if the original notes from the Melbourne Leader chess column by Andrew Burns were by Burns or by Charlick. Reprinted in the Adelaide Observer, and subsequently by Mackenzie in his St. Louis Daily Globe-Democrat column. Research by Paul Dunn. Submitted to Chess Mail by Rick Kennedy, who is looking for information about early Jerome Gambit games. GAM: An ingenious but weak invention by "Legion", godfathered by Jerome.

Myers: This is Game #15 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes. C53: Giuoco Piano sidelines 1.e4 Schipkov, B Notes by Morphy 1...e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.c3 d6 The required move of 4...Nf6 is undoubtedly the best at Black's command at this juncture; the objection to the course pursued in the text is that enables White to establish center pawns.
[RR 4...Nf6]
5.d4 exd4 6.cxd4 Bb6 7.d5 This move, a favorite one with Labourdonnais at this stage of the Giuco Piano, is inferior, in our opinion, to 7.Nc3. The advance of the queen's pawn is premature, and, if properly met by Black, should lead to a perfectly even game. 7...Ne5 The correct play is 7.Nce7 8.Nxe5 dxe5 9.Nc3 Nf6 The position is equal. 10.Bg5 0-0N This allows White by playing his queen to f3, to double the Black pawns upon the f-file, and to gain an opening upon the adverse king; but however Black had played, white would still have had a slightly superior game.

8.cxd4 Bb6 This could be called the 'standard position' in the Evans Gambit. Standard, that is, for chess games played in the 19th century. In the 20th century it has been limited more to correspondence games, probably because these kind of romantic openings were especially popular in thematic tournaments before the introduction of strong chess-playing programs. Now White has two main options: 9 d5 and 9 Nc3. The first we shall look at now, while the second will be covered in Estrin-Angelov and the two subsequent games. 9.d5 Adolf Anderssen, one of the strongest players in the 19th century, has the copyright of this move. Unfortunately for his family, chess players do not like to pay for intellectual rights... 9...Na5 Other moves are weaker (see the annotations to move 9 in Salygo-Boshoer). 10.Bb2 Ne7 That we are dealing with really old stuff can be seen from the next note:

GAME NO. 2
GIUOCO PIANO
1.e4 Bruneau,L; Dumitrache,D John Watson TischbierekThe best move on the board! A Pawn occupies the center, and two pieces are freed for action.
One hundred and fifty years ago the great Philidor said, "The game cannot better be opened than by advancing the King's Pawn two squares." This advice is still good today.
Only one other first move, 1. d4, releases two pieces at once.
1...e5 "Probably the best reply," says Capahlanca.
Black equalizes the pressure in the center and frees his Queen and a Bishop.
2.Nf3 This is superior to such developing moves as 2. Nc3 or 2. Bc4, which are less energetic. The King Knight comes into play with an atttack, which cuts down the choice of reply.
Black must defend his Pawn with ... Nc6 or 2. . . . d6. Or he may decide to counterattack by 2. . . . Nf6.
Whatever his answer, he cannot dawdle. * He must do something to meet White's threat. *
2...Nc6 Undoubtedly the logical move. The Pawn is protected without loss of time, the Queen Knight developing to its most advantageous post in the opening in one move.
3.Bc4 Excellent, as the Bishop seizes an important diagonal. The Bishop strikes at f7, Black's weakest point.
A Bishop is utilized to greatest effect either in controlling a long diagonal or in pinning (and rendering useless) an adverse piece.
3...Bc5 A good alternative is 3. . . . Nc6 Either move is in accord with the maxims of the masters, which they advocate * and put to use: *
Get your pieces out fastl
Move each piece only once in the opening.
Develop with a view to control of the center.
Move only those Pawns which facilitate the development of pieces. Move pieces, not Pawns!
4.c3 White's intentions are clear: he wants to support a Pawn advance in the center. His next move, 5. d4, will attack Pawn and Bishop. To save his King Pawn, Black will be forced to play 5. . . . exd4. The recapture by 6. cxd4 will give White a strong formation of Pawns in the center.
White's idea has some point if it can be enforced. If the plan fails, his Pawn standing at c3 deprives the Queen Knight of its most useful square.
4...Bb6! Chess is not a game to be played mechanically. Usually, moving a piece twice in the opening is a waste of time, but * threats must be parried before continuing development. *

The Bishop retreats in order to evade the effects of White's contemplated 5. d4, which attacks Pawn and Bishop.
[RR 4...d6 5.d4 Bb6 6.dxe5 dxe5 7.Qxd8+]
5.d4 Hoping to induce Black to exchange Pawns. Note that Black's King Pawn is attacked, * but not his Bishop. *
5...Qe7 Instead of exchanging Pawns (as he would have been compelled to do if his Bishop were also under attack) Black defends his King Pawn while bringing another piece into play. His Queen has advanced only one square, but the move is commendable:
* The act of leaving the back rank constitutes a developing move. *
In addition to developing a piece and defending a Pawn, Black's last move threatens 6. . . . exd4 7. cxd4, Qxe4+, winning a Pawn.
6.0-0 Besides the usual benefits derived from castling (safeguarding the King and mobilizing the Rook) White's move indirectly protects his King Pawn. If Black tries 6. . . . exd4 7. cxd4, Qxe4+, then 8. Rel pins and wins the Queen.
6...Nf6! The Knight develops with a threat attack on the King Pawn.
[RR 6...d6 7.h3 Nf6 8.Re1 h6 9.d5 Nb8 10.a4 a5 11.Na3 g5 12.Nh2 (RR 12.Bb5+ Bd7 13.Nc4 Bc5 14.Be3 Bxe3 15.Nxe3 Nxe4 16.Qc2 Nc5 17.Nf5 Qf6 18.b4 axb4 19.cxb4) 12...Rg8 13.Be3 g4 14.Bxb6 cxb6 15.Bb5+ Kf8 16.Qd2 gxh3 17.Qxh6+ Rg7 18.g3 Nbd7 19.Bxd7 Bxd7 20.Nc4 Ra6 21.b3 Chistjakova,T (2464)-Richard Solomon,M (2099) Luzern 2023 CT-2392 [John Watson] 1-0 (78)]
7.d5 Tempting, as it will dislodge the Queen Knight from its strong post.
The move is natural, but to be censured on several counts:
a) The d-Pawn blocks the path of White's own Bishop, greatly limiting its action.
b) The range of Black's Bishop has been increased. Now its attack leads straight to White's King.
c) White has moved a Pawn while his Queen-side pieces are crying to be released.
* In the opening, move only those Pawns that help develop the pieces. *
7...Nb8 Retreat is safer than moving the Knight to the side of the board. After 7. . . . Na5, White's response is 8. Bd3, after which he threatens to win the awkwardly placed Knight by 9. b4.
8.Bd3 Defends the e-Pawn. More consistent with opening strategy is the development of another piece. Either 8. Nbd2 or 8. Qe2 protects the Pawn while bringing one more piece into play.
* Do not move the same piece twice in the opening. *
It is interesting to see how Black punishes these infractions of principle. On the chessboard, if nowhere else, justice does triumph.
8...d6 No exception can be taken to this Pawn move: it strengthens the center, opens a path for the Queen IBishop and relieves the Queen of the burden of watching over the e-Pawn.

9.h3N To prevent Black from pinning his Knight by 9. . . . Bg5, but as Publius Syrus observed some time ago, "There are some remedies worse than the disease."
In disturbing the position of the Pawns shielding his King, White weakens * organically * the structure of the King-side castled position * and sets up the unfortunate Rook Pawn itself as a convenient target for direct attack. *
All chess theorists affirm the validity of this concept of leaving the king-side Pawns unmoved, from Staunton, who said more than a hundred years ago, "It is seldom prudent in an inexperienced player to advance the Pawns on the side on which his King has castled," to Reuben Fine, who says today, "The most essential consideration is that the King must not be subject to attack. He is safest when the three Pawns .are on their original squares."
How does Black take advantage of White's last move? What is the best way to expose its imperfections?

9...h6! By playing a move similar to the one I have severly censured!
What is the justification for Black's advance of the Rook Pawn?
Black has not weakened his defensive position, since his King did not castle on the King side. * His advance of the Rook Pawn is a gesture of attack, not a timid attempt to ward off a pin. * The Rook Pawn will constitute a base for the g-Pawn, which will march up to g5 and then g4. From there it will strike in two directions, at White's Knight and his h-Pawn. White will be compelled either to capture this Pawn or let it capture his h-Pawn. No matter which exchange occurs, it results in an opening up of the g-file, along which Black can align his pieces for an attack on the King.
10.Qe2 A developing move, but it may be too late.
10...g5! A bayonet thrust! The next step is g4, where the Pawn will break up White's position.
11.Nh2 To prevent the intended advance. If the Pawn moves on, it will be attacked three times and defended only twice.
Has Black's plan miscarried?
11...g4! Not at all! If necessary, Black will sacrifice a Pawn for the sake of ripping away the defensive screen around the King.

12.hxg4 Practically forced, as Black was threatening 12. . . . gxh3, as well as 12. . . . g3.
White has managed to close the file, for the time being.
12...Rg8 Now it is Black who attacks the g-Pawn three times, while only two pieces defend it!
Obviously, White may not give his Pawn more support by 13. f3, as it's against the law. It exposes his King to check.
13.Bxh6 Desperately snatching at a loose Pawn. In view of his retarded development and the plight of his King, such a capture is risky policy. If any hope remains, it lies in some such move as 13. Be3. Not only does this bring another piece into play, but in opposing one force with another of equal strength, it neutralizes the pressure of Black's Bishop.
The text move disregards the admonition:
* Do not grab Pawns at the expense of development or position. *
13...Nxg4 Gaining time by threatening the Bishop-among other things.
Can White save the game?
If he tries 14. Nxg4, Black forces the win by 14. . . . Bxg4 (attacking the Queen) 15. Qc2, Bf3 (threatening 16.... Rxg2+ 17. Kh1, Qh4#) 16. g3, Qh4 !, and mate will come at h1.
In this line of play, Black skillfully exploits the helplessness of White's pinned Pawns.
14.Be3 The Bishop flees and attempts to repel one of the assailants.
[14.Nxg4 Bxg4 15.Qc2 Bf3 16.g3 Qh4]
14...Nxh2 This capture greatly limits White's choice of reply. The Knight gas taken a piece and now threatens the Rook.
15.Kxh2
[On the alternative 15.Bxb6 Black wins by axb6 16.Kxh2 Qh4+ 17.Kg1 Rxg2+! (the fastest) 18.Kxg2 Bh3+! and White must either walk into mate by 19.Kg1 *(*or into a discovered check by 19.Kh2 Bxf1+ 20.Kg1 Bxe2 when the loss of material is ruinous. ) 19...Qg4+ 20.Kh2 Qg2#]
15...Qh4+ Black has two major pieces operating with full force on the two open files near the King. The attack plays itself.
16.Kg1 White's only move.
16...Qh3 Threatens mate on the move.
17. Resigns
There is no defense that will postpone the mate for long:
[16...Qh3 If 17.g3 *(*Or if 17.f3 (guarding the Knight Pawn with his Queen) Bxe3+ 18.Rf2 Qxg2#) 17...Rh8 18.f3 Bxe3+ 19.Qxe3 *(*or 19.Rf2 Qxg3+) 19...Qxg3# Strange that White, who feared the pin so much, should perish by the pin!]

Probably his biggest success was Glasgow 1875 when he won the Provincial Challenge Cup of the Counties Association (of which he was hon. sec.), with 10.5/11 ahead of Burn, Skipworth, Ranken etc. and only dropped half a point to Wayte. Ranken game is in The Field of 25/9/1875 and Skipworth game on 11 Sept. Archdall game in The Field of 9 Oct 1875

The following was a really good battle from the recent National Girls Rapidplay finals at which I was coaching. White (graded 102) embarks on a direct attack against the uncastled king. Here we are going to put ourselves in Hannah's shoes and see if we can attack the black king! 1.e4 IainMackintosh ChessBase II Abramovic,Bosko Dragan Solak 1...e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.c3

8.0-0 Nxc3?!

[8...Bxc3! is correct, with the following variations:

A) 9.d5! leads to some absorbing lines:

A1) 9...Ne5 10.bxc3 Nxc4 11.Qd4 Ncd6?! (11...0-0 was the choice of both Anand and Karpov and certainly seems like the safest*)* 12.Qxg7 Qf6 (12...Rf8 13.Re1 Qe7 also seems playable*)* 13.Qxf6 Nxf6 14.Re1+! Kf8 (14...Kd8 15.Bg5 is curtains*)* 15.Bh6+ Kg8 16.Re5! Nfe4 , and now it seems that (16...Nde4 is beautifully met by 17.Nd2!! d6 18.Nxe4 dxe5 19.Nxf6#) 17.Nh4 with the idea of f2-f3 is crushing: for instance, b6 (17...f6 18.Re7) 18.f3 Ba6 19.fxe4 f6 20.Re7 Nf7 21.Nf5 with a winning position for White. Just look at the rook on h8 if you don't believe me!;

A2) 9...Bf6 10.Re1 Ne7 11.Rxe4 d6 12.Bg5 Bxg5 13.Nxg5 h6 (13...0-0 14.Nxh7 Kxh7 15.Qh5+ Kg8 16.Rh4 is unclear after f5) 14.Qe2 hxg5 15.Re1 Be6 16.dxe6 f6 17.Re3 is about equal.;

A3) 9...--;

B) 9.bxc3? d5! is what Black wants, grabbing back space in the centre when White is just a pawn down.;

C) 9.--]

9.bxc3 Bxc3 EXERCISE: Perhaps you are well versed in the games of Greco from the 17th century where this position was first seen? --- If not, how would you continue here? --- ANSWER: The good news is that there are lots of options and most of them are good! 10.Qb3

[10.Ba3 , keeping the black king in the centre, is also very dangerous: d5 this seems relatively best; (10...Bxa1 11.Re1+ Ne7 12.Bxe7 Qxe7 13.Rxe7+

Kxe7 14.Qxa1 is winning for White*)* 11.Bb5 Bxa1 12.Re1+ Be6 and now the new idea 13.Qc2! . White is a rook and two pawns down, but all the pieces are playing! It seems as though Black has to give up the queen to survive: Qd7 ( if 13...Rc8 14.Ne5 Qf6 15.Bxc6+ bxc6 16.Qxc6+ Kd8 17.Rxa1) 14.Ne5 Bxd4 15.Nxd7 Kxd7 16.Rc1 with a very unclear position, although I would take White due to Black's exposed king.]

[10.Bxf7+ should have suggested itself as well, but Black is probably okay after Kxf7 11.Qb3+ d5 12.Qxc3 Re8 .]

10...Bxa1 11.Bxf7+ Kf8 QUESTION: So we are a rook down. How to continue? --- ANSWER: 12.Bg5! The most energetic. 12...Ne7

[Sacrificing the queen may again be best: 12...Nxd4 13.Qa3+ Kxf7 14.Bxd8 Rxd8 , although after 15.Ng5+! Kg8 16.Qd3 we can see the effectiveness of the queen and knight as an attacking combination.]

13.Ne5 Hannah revealed after the game that she was still in her preparation! 13...d5

[13...Bxd4 14.Bg6 d5 15.Qf3+ Bf5 16.Bxf5 Bxe5 leads to disaster on the f-file after 17.Be6+ is winning for White.]

14.Qf3! Again not letting up.

[The lazy 14.Rxa1 would allow Black some time to reorganize with Qd6 15.Qf3 Nf5 .]

14...Bf5 15.Be6 Despite being a rook and pawn down, White is completely winning. All the white pieces are participating in the attack. 15...h6

[15...Bxd4 16.Bxf5 Bxe5 leads to disaster on the f-file after 17.Be6+ .]

16.Bxf5 hxg5 17.Bg6+ Nf5! The only move

[17...Kg8 18.Qf7# is mate.]

18.Qxf5+ Ke7 EXERCISE: Can you find the most direct win?

[18...Qf6 loses the queen to 19.Nd7+ .]

19.Qf7+? White gets carried away momentarily and forgets about her rook! It is worth making the point that players are all too often tempted into throwing in checks when other moves are stronger.

[ANSWER: 19.Re1! , introducing the last piece into the attack, forces mate quickly: Kd6 *(*if 19...Bxd4 20.Nc4+ Be5 21.Rxe5#) 20.Nf7+ Kc6 21.Qc2+! Kb5 (21...Kd7 22.Bf5#) 22.Qc5+ Ka6 23.Bd3+ b5 24.Qxb5# .]

19...Kd6 20.Bf5 QUESTION: Black needs a good defensive move and fast! Any ideas? 20...Qe8 The right idea (to exchange queens), but probably the wrong square as it doesn't force the swap. The right idea (to exchange queens), but probably the wrong square as it doesn't force the swap.

[ANSWER: 20...Qe7! would have been the best practical try. The computer doesn't even want to swap after this! --- EXERCISE: Find a way to keep the queens on! --- ANSWER: 21.Nc4+!! *(*after 21.Qg6+ Qf6 22.Nf7+ Kc6 Black can breathe more easily*)* 21...dxc4 22.Qxc4 (threatening mate on c5) b6 23.Rc1 .]

21.Qxg7 c6 22.Nf7+ Kc7 23.Nxh8+ Now White is material up with a strong attack. The rest needs no comment. 23...Kb6 24.Rb1+ Ka6 25.Bd3+ b5 26.Ng6 Bb2

27.Bf1 Ba3 28.Qf6 Rd8 29.Rxb5 Rd6 30.Rb4+ Ka5 31.Qxd6 Bxb4 32.Qc7+ Ka4 33.Qxa7+ Ba5 34.Ne5 . Summary: This concludes our discussion of the king hunt. I hope these examples have given you a few ideas that can be useful in your own games as you look to attack the uncastled king.

1.e4 John Watson 1...e5? I guess White didn't believe that Black could get to his king with so few pieces developed. However, one of the drawbacks with queenside castling in general is that the a2- and a1-squares are not defended by the king and are therefore that bit weaker compared to h2 and h1, which are defended when White castles kingside. --- EXERCISE: Simon Williams rarely misses the opportunity to attack when he can. How does he get the ball rolling here? --- ANSWER: 2.Nf3! Opening a queenside file due to the hook on a4. 2...Nc6?! 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 Black drives the white knight back to a passive square. 4...Bxb4 QUESTION: White has closed the door for the moment. How can Black keep the attack going? 5.c3! Williams is very resourceful when it comes to finding ways to attack and a study of his games will definitely improve your attacking chess! Here he reroutes the bishop to the diagonal where the king is trapped and threatens ...Bh6 followed by ...e6-e5 when the knight blocks. 5...Ba5!? White gives back the pawn and perhaps believes that he will find some attacking chances of his own by opening the e-file. However, the Sicilian pawn structures (in this case a Kan/Taimanov structure with pawns f7-e6-d7) are remarkably resilient and can stand up to a lot of pressure if necessary. 6.d4 d6 White gives his king some air and blocks the long diagonal. 7.Qb3 Qd7 8.dxe5?! A square clearance sacrifice that seems unnecessary. 8...Bb6

[Avery, TA]

Avery: In 1894 Walter Penn Shipley organized a tournament under the auspices of the Continental Correspondence Chess Association. By today's standards, the event was fairly small: 70 players divided into five 14-man round-robin sections, with the five section winners playing another round for the championship. The event, won by C. W. Phillips of Chicago, was the largest such event in America to that time; Hermann Helms always referred to it, even 50 years later, as the "the great Continental Chess Association tournament of 1894." 22. MORPHY (1837-1884) Many people consider Morphy to be the greatest combinative player of all time. But Morphy owed his remarkable achievements not only to his admittedly tremendous combinative talents, but also to the fact that he was the first perfect positional player - in so far as one can speak of perfection in a human being. Moreover, he had excellent technique. In the maturity of his positional insight, Morphy was half a century ahead of his time. While other racked their brains for the right procedure, Morphy simply knew what to do. Unlike his contemporaries who played for complications on the off chance of finding something, he struck only when the position was ripe. When he did strike, the blow was hard and often settled the game outright 22. MORPHY (1837-1884)

BLACKMAR-DIEMER GAMBIT INTRODUCTION/HEROES: The Blackmar-Diemer Gambit is not an opening for the feint-hearted. White sacrifices an important central pawn at the earliest opportunity, gaining a lead in development and open lines for his pieces. There are few chances to bail out. Playing the Blackmar-Diemer Gambit you must be prepared to kill or be killed! One of the main advantages of the gambit is the psychological one. Black is thrown onto his own resources from an early stage and will have to accept some degree of passivity, to cope with the rampaging White pieces. Many Black players are simply not up to the mental task of defending against an immediate all out attack. The following game is by one of the first players to really appreciate the finer points of the gambit. We see Blackmar proceeding to simply tear open the very heart of his unsuspecting opponent's defences, helping to bring the Blackmar-Diemer Gambit to the attention of the chess world. 1.e4 Xu Jun English Mechanic 4 May 1883 1...e5 2.Nf3 The Blackmar- Diemer comes as a genuine shock to most Black players. White offers a pawn on move two, accelerating his development and opening lines for attacking purposes. 2...Nc6 3.Bc4 At the time of this game, Blackmar, one of the leading exponents of this line, which now bears his name, favoured 3.f3. Over time, theory has changed and this move has fallen into disuse, because of the Black reply 3... e5, which gives Black a good ending, after: 4.dxe5 Qxd1+. 3...Bc5 At the time that this game was played, 3... e5 had not yet been discovered, and in any case, players liked to keep their queens for attacking purposes. Black chooses instead to set a trap. 4.b4 White sees straight through Black's trick. 4...Bb6 Black continues to play aggressively and piles on the central pressure. 5.a4

10...c6 A somewhat artificial move, Black attempts to keep White's Nf3 from relocating to a more threatening square (e5 or g5), but in doing so, exposes the queen. 11.Kh1 White refuses to be bound by Black's logic and continues forcefully.

TH: Played by telegraph 1/12/1897-30/4/1898. Chigorin was probably involved in this match to some extent, but probably not as much as in other matches as St Petersburg was outplayed. See The Field 21 May 1989; cf Pagni volume 1. Verbal notes by Kemeny included with these notes from Alapin. 1.e4 e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 Bxb4

22. MORPHY (1837-1884)
Many people consider Morphy to be the greatest combinative player of all time. But Morphy owed his remarkable achievements not only to his admittedly tremendous combinative talents, but also to the fact that he was the first perfect positional player - in so far as one can speak of perfection in a human being. Moreover, he had excellent technique.
In the maturity of his positional insight, Morphy was half a century ahead of his time. While other racked their brains for the right procedure, Morphy simply knew what to do. Unlike his contemporaries who played for complications on the off chance of finding something, he struck only when the position was ripe. When he did strike, the blow was hard and often settled the game outright
1.e4 John Watson ChessBase II 1...e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.c3 Qe7
At the time when this game was played Morphy had already withdrawn from public chess. Anrous de Rivier was his personal friend and they played occasionally to investigate particular variations

10.Na3 Morphy always brought every piece into play as quickly as possible. To play the same piece twice in the opening was a breach of principle. Only under the influence of such players as Reti and Breyer, about 1920, was it realized that in some cases it can be good. The present position is such a case: White could obtain a definitie advantage with 10. ♗b5!

1.e4 ChessBase Regarding the struggle of the centre, White makes a good move. He captures one of the central square (e4) and takes under attack another one - d5. Yet this move has opened the diagonals for other White pieces. Any moves by edge pawns (e.g. a4 or h4), which the beginners like to do in the opening, do not solve these problems; therefore they are much more worse.Ein guter Zug, was den Kampf um das Zentrum angeht. Weiß besetzt ein Zentrumsfeld (e4) und kontrolliert ein weiteres- d5. Darüber hinaus öffnet der Zug Diagonalen für andere weiße Figuren. Randbauernzüge dagegen (z.B. a4 oder h4), die Anfänger so gerne machen, leisten in dieser Hinsicht gar nichts und sind deshalb weit schwächer. 1...e5 Black's move has the same aims as White's.Schwarz tut es dem Weißen nach. 2.Nf3 The Knight is going towards the centre. He attacks Black's central pawn and takes under control a new central square - d4. 2. Nc3 is acceptable too. But such moves as 2. Na3 or 2. Nh3 are very poor: they do not promote the struggle for the central base. A gambit play is also possible when we speak about the centre. For example, White can sacrifice his pawn by 2.f4 to get rid of the enemy's e5-pawn and get a firm hold of the centre after 3.d4. Undermining the enemy's centre is a main idea of many modern openings. Der Springer zieht in Richtung Zentrum. Dabei greift er den schwarzen Zentrumsbauern an und kontrolliert ein neues Zentrumsfeld- d4. Auch 2. Sc3 ist akzeptabel. Züge wie 2. Sa3 oder 2.Sh3 dagegen sind sehr schwach: sie leisten nichts im Kampf um die Zentrumsbasis. Ein Gambitspiel ist im Zentrumskampf ebenfalls möglich. Zum Beispiel kann Weiß mit 2.f4 seinen Bauern opfern, um den gegnerischen Zentrumsbauern e5 zu beseitigen und nach 3.d4 im Zentrum fest Fuß zu fassen. Die Unterminierung des gegnerischen Zentrums ist eine Hauptidee vieler moderner Eröffnungen. 2...Nc6 This is one of the best ways to protect this pawn: the piece moves towards the centre and aims at the important central squares. Dies ist einer der besten Wege, um diesen Bauern zu decken: die Figur zieht ins Zentrum und beäugt die wichtigen Zentralfelder. 3.Bc4 Bc5 Both White and Black are developing their pieces so that they have an effect on the centre.Sowohl Weiß als auch Schwarz entwickeln ihre Figuren so, daß sie auf das Zentrum wirken. 4.c3 d6 Strengthening the point e5.Stärkt den Punkt e5. 5.d4 exd4 To avoid the loss of a pawn Black is forced to concede his positions in centre. Once the basic e5-point is removed, White gets an advantage on this part of the chessboard.Um Bauernverlust zu vermeiden, ist Schwarz gezwungen, seine Zentrumsstellung aufzugeben. Nach Beseitigung des Punktes e5 kommt Weiß an diesem Brettabschnitt in Vorteil.

Lasker is the great apostle of common sense in chess. Faced with the dilemma of keeping an extra pawn with an edge or keeping an extra piece with an agonizing defense, he unhesitatingly renounces the greater material possession. Steinitz relaxes when the smoke clears and throws away a likely draw in an opposite colored bishop ending. Finally he falls prey to a positional paralysis known as Zugzwang. 6...Nc6 Compared to 6...Ne6 covered in (Chapter 5) , Black's pawn structure remains nice and tidy, but in return, we have complete control over the a2-g8 diagonal and more active pieces. 6...Nc6 is the most frequent response to Be3, but there are not enough games to draw conclusions about who is more likely to play this move. The vast majority of our opponents will not be too familiar with the position. From my experience, I have concluded that 6...Ne6 will be chosen by more cautious players in blitz and rapid. Contrary to that, more aggressive players in longer time formats will play 6...Nc6 and force you to prove the compensation. 7.Nc3 The most natural and logical move. We're one step closer to the queenside castle and increasing our control over the d5 square. Moves like Qg4 are possible, but they don't offer the same level of flexibility and overall just aren't as good. 7...Nge7 In my opinion, this is the best continuation for Black. Black dodges our g4 ideas and continues his development. I'd expect this move mostly from strong players in games with longer time control. 8.Qd2 -0.41/20
[8.g3= -0.04/20 is more appropriate.]
8...d6∓ 9.0-0-0 Be6 10.Nd5 We're not allowing any simplifications. We plan to attack Black's King or open the position with f4. At first glance, the last two Black moves don't seem forced and looks like there should be more options, but there really aren't. The only other plan for Black would be to castle kingside, which we will cover in the following line. 10...0-0 11.h4 Since Black castled kingside, it's time for us to start pushing our kingside pawns. This position might not look that good when you first see it. You could claim that White is a clear pawn down, and Black has no weaknesses. But I'd argue that our pieces are better positioned, we have more space, a bishops pair and a clear plan - attacking the black King. Also, the position is undoubtedly harder to navigate for Black. 11...f5 With f5, Black's taking a more proactive approach in solving his issues. Black's threatening to play both f4 and fxe4. 12.Bg5 We're taking advantage of the weak a2-g8 diagonal. Our threat is to play Nxe7, which would win us a piece. 12...Qd7 Black stops our threat of Nxe7 by defending the e6 Bishop. 13.Bb5

A very strong move after which we're again threatening to take on e7. And now Nd5xe7+ would win. 13...Nc8 The only move for Black. Everything else would lose material. 14.h5 We're continuing with our attacking plans on the kingside. 14...h6 15. Bxh6! 14...fxe4N This move is Black's best attempt to keep the position dynamically balanced. With active play in the center, Black wants to switch focus from the black King. Hoping for ...h7-h6.

15.h6 Black must now prevent h6xg7. 15...g6 16.Nf6+

Our h-pawn has successfully reached h6 and created long-term weaknesses on the dark squares around the black King. Moves 16.Rhe1 and 16.Rh4 are completely playable, but I decided for Nf6 because it grants clarity in the position and secures an immediate material advantage, which can have a psychological impact on the opponent. 16...Rxf6! 17.Bxf6 At first glance, most players would evaluate this position as much better for White, but CCStartBracket CCunCCEndBracket CCsurprisingly, the engine disagrees. The engine's evaluation is 0.00 as per usual. After some thinking, Black's compensation for being an exchange for a pawn down is in the center control. It's not obvious how we will activate our Rooks. Surprisingly, the weird structure on the kingside offers excellent protection for the black King. We would be better off if we could just remove the h6 pawn from the board. 17...Nb6! Black has to bring the last piece into the game. It wouldn't make a difference if Black started with Qf7 or Nb6 - we would continue with the same move order. 18.Qg5 Qf7 0.44/21

[18...Nd5= -0.27/23]

19.Bxc6± For the best practical chances, I'd recommend following the concrete line that the course is offering. Alternatively, you can play 19.Rh4 with the idea of controlling the 4th rank and attacking the e4 pawn. Dancing on a razor blade. 19...bxc6 20.Bxe5 dxe5 21.Rd8+ Rxd8 22.Qxd8+ Qf8 23.Qxc7 This position is, in my opinion, almost winning in a practical game. The black King is simply too weak. While the engine evaluation is 0.00, I don't think any human would want to play this position from the Black's side. Our plan is to pick up the weak black pawns, put our Rook on d1 and either win by tactical means or by pushing the pawns on the queenside. Weighted Error Value: White=0.04 (flawless) /Black=0.10 (very precise)

A forceful liquidation
Clearly Black has a much better game with control of the open c-file as well as chances of Kingside attack by virtue of the half-open h-file. Szabo finds a forceful means of liquidating into a won ending
